Claim Soviet Seeks Rule Austria

Molotov Hotly Denies Charge By Marshall

By R. H. Shackford

MOSCOW, April 18 (BUP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall charged tonight that Russia apparently wants to establish a puppet regime in Austria, judging from Soviet attempts to retain control of disputed Nazi assets there.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov snapped back that Marshall was "manipulating figures."

Molotov denied that Russia had any intention of keeping a finger in Austria's economic pie, as Marshall had charged. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin joined Marshall in the charge.

THE SHARP exchange between Marshall and Molotov came during a full-scale debate over disposition of German assets—the main stumbling block which brought about a Big Four impasse on the Austrian treaty.

Marshall's plea that the council of foreign ministers come to a decision "here and now" went unheeded. After two hours of debate the ministers passed over the issue without a decision, and discussed other articles of the Austrian treaty draft.

IN A SPECIAL effort to speed up the lagging work of the council, the ministers decided to meet both morning and evening tomorrow to continue the discussion of the Austrian treaty.

The results of this discussion cannot help our work here," Georges Bidault of France, chairman of tonight's session, summed up pessimistically as the ministers turned away in at least temporary defeat from the assets problem.

Marshall appealed to his colleagues to break the deadlock by settling their differences on some "middle ground."

MARSHALL'S APPEAL came as the conflict over Austrian reparations, a definition of Nazi property, and Yugoslav territorial claims in Carinthia remained unbroken.

Marshall asked his colleagues to make "a determined effort right here and now" to settle their differences.

He interjected his appeal as the ministers again considered the

Warns Crisis Approaching

Churchill Flays Govt., Raps Henry Wallace

LONDON, April 18 (CP)—Winston Churchill today declared that prolongation of the present system of government in Britain would break the British Isles and the people would have to starve or "subsist on the charity of capitalist America."

CHURCHILL, delivering a blistering attack against the government, was cheered by 10,000 persons at the first post-war meeting of the Grand Habitation of the Primrose League—a Conservative organization founded about 64 years ago to honor Benjamin Disraeli.

"Everyone is conscious of the approaching crisis in our financial and economic affairs," he said. "The Socialist government is living upon the American dole and squandering with prodigal rapidity this loan, which can only be justified as a means of re-equipping our industries after the twin wars in which we made such extreme sacrifices."

ATTACKING HENRY Wallace as a "crypto-Communist," Churchill said the former United States vice-president had sought "to separate Great Britain from the United States and to weave her into a vast system of Communist

U.S. Labor Curb Passed by House

WASHINGTON, April 18 (AP)—A bill to curb strikes, restrict union activities and make some sweeping changes in New Deal labor law was passed overwhelmingly yesterday by the Republican-controlled House of Representatives.

But even as it went to the Senate, the labor committee there completed a milder measure of its own, stripped of some of the major house provisions, and sent it to the floor for debate to start next Wednesday. The house vote was 308 to 107. This would be margin enough to override any veto by President Truman, if the lineup on such a test should remain the same.

The Senate labor committee's vote was 11 to 2 for its legislation. The major difference between the two measures is that the house curbs industry-wide bargaining and outlaws jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts. The Senate labor committee's bill does not.

Under Decontrol Program

Survey Shows Prices Vary Across Canada

By The Canadian Press

Canadians, faced with an inevitably rising price structure as the government's decontrol and subsidy-removal program unfolds, overnight have become control-conscious and price-conscious.

AND, AN UNOFFICIAL survey today showed, in some cases they have a right to be, and in others they haven't. Essentially, it depends often on where they live and the goods they buy.

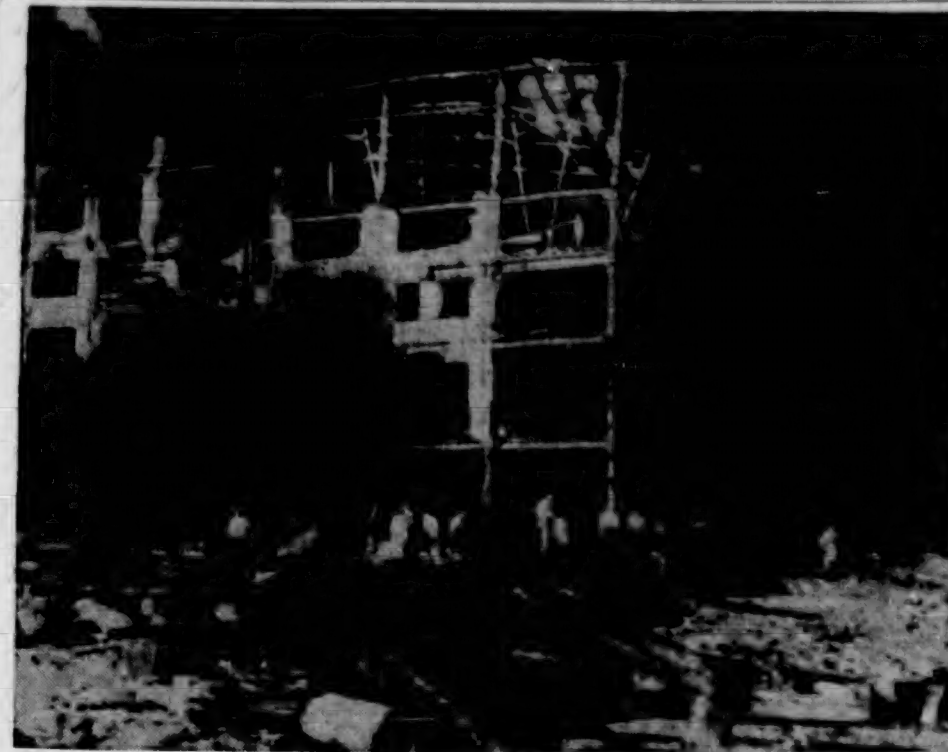

The survey, consisting of a sampling of prices taken by the Canadian Press in a half-dozen cities, indicates that in most cases wholesalers and retailers are holding the price pins on the goods and services being decontrolled, although there is evidence, too, that some are "charging all the traffic will bear."

But, on the whole, prices are unchanged to slightly higher—depending, again, on where you live and what you buy—on most goods and services except those on which government-paid subsidies have been abolished and transferred to the retail price.

General Wingate's Body Said Found

CALCUTTA, April 18 (AP)—The Calcutta Statesman reported today the body of Maj.-Gen. Orde Wingate, British leader of the legendary "Chindits" during the war in Burma, had been found in the rugged Himalayan foothills near the India-Burma border.

The famous 39-year-old general was killed March 24, 1944, in the crash of a B-25 plane with the loss of eight other lives.

The Statesman said Wingate's body was found by a British graves commission, which marched several days across rough terrain to the spot.

As "Dreaded" Change in Wind Comes

Texas City Faces New Danger

TEXAS CITY, Tex., April 18 (AP)—The smoke from 11 fires rose over stricken Texas City as the dreaded change in wind came today. Two of the fires were new.

The Coast Guard opened a hearing in Galveston into the cause of the trigger-explosion in the French freighter Grand Camp that set off the chain of blasts fatal to an estimated 650 persons Wednesday and yesterday.

An advance party of firemen dressed in asbestos fire fighting suits moved into the Monsanto chemical company plant shortly after sunrise. They were the first to enter the plant in three days. Officials are convinced that many more bodies will be found in the smouldering ruins.

A stiff north wind had been blowing flames and smoke out to sea, but today it shifted to the south. By noon smoke had drifted as far inland as Palestine and Jacksonville, 160 to 175 air miles north of the disaster area.

Butter Prices To Be Boosted

By CHESTER BLOOM

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau OTTAWA, April 18 — It was learned from an authentic source this morning that the price of butter will be increased from 12 to 13 cents a pound next week.

The increase will be made up of the following factors: BETWEEN EIGHT and nine cents to compensate producers for loss of the government subsidy, and Four to five cents upward adjustment of the price ceiling. On the basis of butter price in Ottawa of 46 cents a pound, the increase will make the new price 59 to 60 cents a pound.

The announcement will be made by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture. Simultaneously, Mr. Gardiner is expected to announce the end of butter rationing at an early date.

The government expects Canadian farmers as the result of the four to five-cent increase in ceiling price to use every effort to increase butter production and thus to make rationing unnecessary for equitable distribution of supply.

THESE CHANGES, it is learned, have been decided on in accordance with a recommendation of the advisory committee of the agricultural prices support board. The committee has been working with Mr. Gardiner for some time on the subject. Members of the committee include nine deputy ministers of provincial departments of agriculture, seven representatives of farmers' organizations, and officials of the federal department of agriculture.

Edmonton Pilot Saves Plane, Crew

Four Edmonton men successfully landed in a Dakota airplane at The Pas, Manitoba, Thursday night with the hydraulic system out of order, the undercarriage "frozen down," and the starboard engine "packed up." "PO" J. J. Rigby, DFC, 19378, 126 street, captain of the plane was credited Friday with saving an RCAF crew and plane.

The plane, a Dakota of the 435 squadron Edmonton, was flying empty from Churchill, Manitoba, to The Pas, after carrying supplies to the northern port. It carried a crew of five.

After the plane's undercarriage collapsed and one engine failed, Rigby drove the machine at full speed on one engine for 90 minutes. Before reaching The Pas, the other engine began to sputter.

RIGBY managed to reach The Pas, but without the undercarriage, the Dakota over-ran the runway, and landed on its nose. None of the crew was hurt and the plane was not damaged seriously.

Other members of the crew were: PO T. B. Janson, 10357, 85 street, wireless operator; PO D. O. Pett, 11717, 88 street, navigator; LAC F. A. LaPoint, 10243, 90 street, and Ptl. L. J. G. Roberts, RAF, in Canada on an exchange posting, co-pilot.

PAUL ROBESON

Famous Singer Paul Robeson To Defy Threat

PEORIA, Ill., April 18 (AP)

—Despite "some threats of violence," Singer Paul Robeson said he would appear here tonight "with adequate protection" to present a concert once cancelled.

"I am not easily frightened," the negro said in announcing his appearance under sponsorship of "local labor, Negro and other progressive groups."

Robeson, named by the house of representatives committee on un-American activities last Tuesday as one of a group of persons "invariably found supporting the Communist party and its front organizations," previously had been scheduled to appear under another sponsorship.

The Peoria city council in a meeting last Tuesday night went on record officially against his appearance after Alderman Milo Nelson said "bringing Paul Robeson to Peoria Friday night is a direct insult to our boys who fought and died for the principles of America."

Then without naming Robeson, the council unanimously adopted a resolution disapproving the appearance here of "any speaker or artist who is an avowed or active propagandist for un-American ideology."

Vermilion Man Scalded to Death

VANCOUVER, April 18 (CP)

He was found by other tenants after one of them heard groans coming from the bathroom. The tub was filled with water and the hot water tap running.

Constable J. L. Marshall suffered a scalded hand in a vain attempt to remove Tucker from the boiling water.

THE ATTACK came after British authorities had further relaxed rigid security measures imposed Tuesday prior to the hanging of Iyeha Gruner and three other Jewish underground members for anti-British violence. The special curfew which had been imposed in Jewish sections of most Palestine cities were lifted, but the dusk-to-dawn curfew on road travel throughout the Holy Land was continued.

In Setting Rates Would Bar CNR Financial Position

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, April 18 (CP)—Provincial counsel at the railway freight-rate inquiry moved today to have the Canadian National Railways' financial position barred from consideration in the setting of any rates.

Saskatchewan counsel proposed to the Board of Transport Commissioners that they disregard the CNR's financial need on the ground that it would be an "inflated yardstick" and it was expected six other provinces would join the move.

The provinces' action came after the Canadian Pacific wound up its case after two months of presentation of evidence.

In moving to have the CNR's financial needs disregarded, M. A. MacPherson cited a 1920 Dominion order-in-council declaring that "fair and reasonable rates should now be arrived at without reference to the requirements of the CNR."

This order, Mr. MacPherson said, had been held applicable by the board of railway commissioners during its 1925-27 general freight-rate investigation, and he claimed the principle still held good.

busy Allenby Road this afternoon, wounding two British police officers. The reports said three civilians were wounded in the ensuing gunfire.

GUARDS WERE reinforced in most of Jerusalem's public buildings. Spot identity checks were being made throughout Jerusalem as dispatch riders shuttled in large numbers between the battalion command posts inside the city and the roadblocks thrown up on all approaches to the Holy City.

Bombs also exploded in the Arab city of Jaffa, but unofficial sources said this might have been the result of an argument among Arabs. One explosion damaged the offices of an Arab youth group. There were no casualties. In recent months there has been strife between two Arab youth organizations.

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., April 18—(AP)—Faris El Khoury, Syrian delegate to the Security Council and a leading Arab spokesman, indicated today that the Arab states would attempt to block the proposed United Nations inquiry into the Palestine problem.

He said they would demand an immediate solution of the long-standing controversy and added: "We are opposed to the whole idea of an investigation."

dian cities as a result of recent decontrol measures follows:

Halifax: Board of trade officials say there is no trend to charge all the traffic will bear. One official said some organizations have been raising prices but they are in the minority.

Charlottetown: General price increases are "pretty much in line with the mainland and retailers are not too anxious to boost prices."

Saint John, N.B.: Most merchants trying to keep prices down even to the extent of sacrificing a percentage of usual profits. Future increases up to 31 per cent in some lines, especially clothing, are believed inevitable. Some foodstuffs have gone up slightly and the average increase is expected to be about six per cent.

MONTREAL: Retailers report prices on suits, overcoats and woolen goods have increased and are continuing to increase. Coal dealers say prices are unlikely to go higher.

Toronto: The board of trade reports some merchants advertising that their prices are not going up but they are the minority. Increases in food, clothing, and shoes prompt doubts as to whether an "honest" effort is being made to stem increases.

Winnipeg: The Retail Merchants' Association reports they have noted storekeepers are charging "everything they can." Chain stores are tending to hold prices down, because they work on a larger turnover and their basic price is lower than that of the individual merchant.

REGINA: The Retail Merchants' Association reports prices are "too high" in some lines already and that most merchants would prefer some controls for another year or so to avoid "runaway prices." There is a definite tendency by most merchants to hold prices down for fear that an undue increase will decrease buying.

Moose Jaw: The general feeling is that increases have been kept to the bare necessities, based on costs of production. One department store owner said he was surprised to find how little costs to him have gone up and cited the case of one manufacturer who, on 30 to 40 lines of goods, had absorbed the increased cost on some lines and expected the retailer to absorb the increases in the others.

EDMONTON: The Retail Merchants Association reports decontrol has not materially affected the cost of living nor have prices risen except on small items such as chocolate bars. Prices in other lines have risen slightly since decontrol.

Vancouver: The British Columbia Retail Merchants Association says the tendency is to "sell close rather than to take advantage of price decontrol." Wholesalers are increasing prices slightly but retailers are holding their prices down to ensure a market.

question of what German assets in Austria should be regarded as available for reparations.

"IT HAS HERETOFORE been impossible to resolve this question," Marshall said. "The time has now come definitely to resolve this question. Past misunderstandings and arguments should not be perpetuated and elaborated but on the contrary we should seek here a constructive settlement."

Marshall suggested that the German assets in Austria be defined as the property rights and interests owned on May 8, 1945 by the German government or German nationals which were:

OWNED BY THE German government on March 12, 1938 or acquired after March 12, 1938 by the German government or by persons then German nationals "if such assets were acquired without force or duress."

Marshall's proposal was virtually the same as the position on which the American delegation has been insisted from the start—a position vigorously opposed by Russia.

The Big Four discussion followed an appeal by Austrian Foreign Minister Karl Gruber that the ministers decide on an Austrian peace treaty immediately since Austria was the first nation to lose independence at Germany's hands and now was the last to have it restored.

HERE, HOWEVER, the wind was described as little more than a breeze. A stiff ground breeze from the south might send heat from burning Humble oil tanks against others in the Sid Richardson plant, and set them off.

Deaths among the injured overnight brought the disaster toll to 271 counted bodies, of which 194 have been identified. But scores—possibly hundreds—are missing and the fatality total is certain to rise. All hospitals in the Houston-Galveston area are filled with thousands of injured.

Seven of the 11 fires still burning today were oil storage tanks in the Humble Company's tank farm, about one-quarter mile from the Monsanto plant.

MAYOR J. C. TRANHAN said today: "It looks pretty good in the Humble area now. Most of the fires there, though still burning, are under control."

Marvin Hill, fire insurance commissioner, said at Austin, he believed the property loss will be second in value to that incurred by the San Francisco fire of 1906 which cost $350,000,000.

Other unofficial estimates have placed the property loss here from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. Police Chief W. L. Laddis said the crisis is past.

The major conflagration today was at the vast Humble Oil Company's storage tank farm at the south of the city. Apprehensive residents still watched the boiling oil fires, but Laddis asserted:

"I BELIEVE that all danger is gone."

Five or six storage tanks of approximately 55,000 gallons capacity had exploded and burned since 4 p.m. yesterday. Five other major tanks had exploded since 9:12 a.m. Wednesday.

The burning nitrate-laden French freighter Grand Camp exploded Wednesday morning to set off another blast at the huge Monsanto chemical plant two minutes later. Chains of fire swept through the city in an aftermath.

For the most part, fires were left to burn themselves out, while rescue workers hunted through twisted wreckage for the estimated hundreds of persons believed buried.

Twisted hunks of steel and other debris rained down on the industrial section of the city early yesterday when a second nitrate-laden ship, the High Flyer, exploded, sinking a third, the Wilson B. Keene.

CLOUDS OF smoke rose 8,000 feet, submarine pens, anti-aircraft guns, and radar installations were ripped apart. Debris peppered the sea for hundreds of yards around the island.

(A BBC correspondent flying over the scene said the island shot into the air "like the skyscrapers on the New York skyline.") He

Wednesday slipped back into town yesterday, to stand before improvised morgues hoping to find relatives and friends, to stare at ruined homes and stores.

Rescue workers evacuated the explosion area late yesterday and were issued gas masks against the possible spread of poisonous fumes from further explosions.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 18—(AP)—A report to the Houston Chronicle today said "several" persons trapped in the Monsanto Chemical Company plant were found alive today 48 hours after Wednesday's terrific explosions.

POLICE AT THE main gate to the restricted area, however, said at 12:30 p.m. CST, that they had no knowledge of such victims being found alive.

The Chronicle said the report came from H. N. Sandell, in charge of the crew of embalmers at the emergency mortuary at Texas City.

They were found, according to the report, when rescue workers pushed deep into the wreckage of the mammoth plant. All were reported injured.

Guerillas Escape

ATHENS, April 18 (AP)—More than 1,500 guerillas were reported reliably today to have sneaked through Greek Army lines to escape a government pocket in which some 2,500 had been caught in the Southern Pindus mountains. The island was blown up by 3,500 tons of explosives hauled to it by German engineers under British direction, 3,000 tons of explosives left behind by the Germans when the war ended and an undetermined amount of ammunition concealed in passages honeycombing the miniature Gibraltar.

THE FIRST in the series of explosions was small to scare away the island's teeming bird life. Approximately 2,000 inhabitants had been evacuated to Hamburg for eventual settlement on another German island.

German newspapers and radios had warned residents of all coastal towns within a hundred-mile radius to open their windows to prevent shattering. A movie camera was placed in a concrete pillbox on the tiny island of Duna half a mile from Helgoland to record the blast. British naval experts believed its pictures might rival those of Bikini.

Ammonium Nitrate Fertilizer Caused Texas City Disaster

By Ted Summerlin
Written for The Associated Press
GALVESTON, Tex., April 18 (AP)—The fire and explosion which practically destroyed Texas City was caused by ammonium nitrate fertilizer, three of the six surviving crew members of the ship where the fire started, said last night.

CONTRARY to reports that a quantity of black powder on the victory ship Grand Camp caused the explosion which spread through the thriving industrial section, Morris Lebrozec, 50-year-old seaman, said the fire originated in hold number four.

The hold was partially filled with fertilizer Tuesday and the hatch was closed for the night, Lebrozec said.

Wednesday morning when the stevedore crew reported the hold was opened by Julien Gueril, ship's carpenter and now in hospital here.

"I SAW A LITTLE smoke rising from the fertilizer when I opened the hatch," Gueril said. "I picked up a fire extinguisher and started spraying the cargo."

"When the smoke started coming out bigger I closed the hatch and turned on steam in the compartment. The fire kept burning until it made enough pressure to blow off the cover."

Pieces of the ship weighing hundreds of pounds were blown 2,000 feet in the air and some large blocks of metal landed in the business district a mile from the ship.

THE CREW MEMBERS said that the fire evidently started when the hatch was first opened at 8 a.m.

"The first mate ordered the ship abandoned about 8:30. The crew, except the surviving members, joined the stevedores on the dock where they were killed by the explosion."

Three of the survivors went to a nearby refreshment stand while three others walked to the home of a friend.

"The explosion was many times worse than a V-2 bomb," said survivor Guy Saucy, with the Free French during the war.

"Our ears were bleeding and we were in a daze until someone took us to the hospital."

Freight Revenue Figures Provided

OTTAWA, April 18 (CP)—Freight revenue per ton-mile of the Canadian Pacific Railway is higher in the east than in the west, N. R. Crump, Canadian Pacific Railway Vice-president and general manager of eastern lines, told the board of Transport commissioners today.

TESTIFYING in the railway freight-rate inquiry, Mr. Crump gave the board figures to show that the company's return per ton-mile had been higher since 1938 on lines east of Fort William.

Mr. Crump gave these figures on ton-mile revenue in cents:

	East West
1939	.99 .77
1940	.94 .77
1941	.88 .72
1942	.95 .79
1943	.93 .82
1944	.96 .78
1945	.93 .76
1946	.99 .88

Against these figures, Alberta Counsel J. J. Frawley read into the record CPR statistics to the effect that between 1936 and 1946 the company had gross eastern earnings of $1,168,000,000 compared with gross western earnings of $1,279,000,000 and net eastern and western earnings, respectively, of $126,607,000 and $248,157,000.

COL. J. L. RALSTON, Maritime counsel, turned the questioning of Mr. Crump to his earlier evidence on curtailment of the CPR's maintenance program and asked him to confirm his previous statement the "drastic" curtailment in freight rates was obtained.

Vice-president Crump said his recollection of the curtailment order was that it was to remain in effect until the situation respecting revenue had been clarified.

intrigue which radiates from Moscow."

"Our policy toward Russia must be one of honorable friendship through strength," Churchill said. "It must not be cowardly appeasement through weakness."

"It must be absolutely clear we shall allow no wedge to be driven between Great Britain and the United States."

AMID LAUGHTER, Churchill explained his designation of Wallace.

"A Crypto-Communist," he declared, "is one who has not got the courage to explain the destination for which he is making."

In reference to the European speaking tour in which Wallace has attacked United States foreign policy, Churchill added:

"I travel about a certain amount myself and I am received with much kindness by all classes, both in Europe and in America. But when I am abroad, I always make it a rule never to criticize or to attack the government of my own country."

"I HAVE NO patience with Englishmen who use the hospitality of a friendly nation to decry their own."

Referring to Russia, he declared: "We earnestly hope that all the peoples of Russia may be safe."

The Mayor's Proclamation

Mayor Harry D. Ainlay will tomorrow proclaim the use of daylight saving in Edmonton between April 27 and September 28.

There is no doubt that a substantial majority of people in the city of Edmonton itself are in favor of thus advancing the clock. There is equally no doubt that those who oppose it in Edmonton, together with those who oppose it in the Edmonton trading area, outnumber its proponents in the city.

Nevertheless, since the Mayor's mandate is from Edmonton residents only, and since a majority of Edmonton residents have endorsed the move, his worship has little choice. It is quite proper that he should issue the proclamation and similarly proper that all Edmonton people should obey it.

The proclamation does not, of course, have the force of law. But good citizens, no matter how bitterly they are opposed to fancy time, will respect the Mayor's motives and his request to those over whom he presides as chief magistrate.

It should be noted, of course, that the issuance of this proclamation and the citizens' obedience to it do not establish a precedent in this city upon which may be based any repetition of the procedure without further consultation of the public will.

It is perfectly conceivable that one summer's experience with the device in peacetime may turn a good many people against it. This likelihood is considerably enhanced by the fact that Edmonton is far enough north geographically to enjoy a long summer day as it is, and so located in the time belt as to be already 36 minutes ahead of sun time.

However, even those Edmonton people who are opposed should submit to the proclamation with good grace—on the understanding that by next spring some new steps will have been taken to place all Canada, urban and rural, upon a unified time footing.

First Principles

To every person who plans to put up a house or a business building, to all those engaged in the construction industry and to those who run retail lumber yards, it is good news that quotas for the export of lumber are to be cut down, and more made available for use in Canada.

That should have been done last year. The export of lumber from Canada should be limited to the surplus that is left over after the home demand has been adequately met. Last year the home market got only what could not be shipped out of the country. It's time for a change.

But, millmen say they lose money on lumber they sell in Canada. It would be interesting to know what exactly they mean by that. What they almost certainly mean is that they get less for lumber sold in Canada than they get for lumber exported to the United States—where the whole price level, and the income level as well, is far higher.

If this is what the millmen mean, they need to be told that their line of reasoning will have to be corrected. The farmers of Canada are supplying wheat for Canadian consumption at a lower price than can be got for wheat sold abroad. Just why should the millmen not be required to supply Canadian consumers with lumber on a cost plus basis—not on the basis of how much they can wheedle out of buyers in the United States or some other country?

The proper starting point for regulating the lumber-producing industry is the fact that the trees belong to the people of Canada, not to the men who run lumber mills. The millmen seem to have been allowed to forget that basic fact. They should be reminded of it by an official order requiring them to supply Canadian consumers at reasonable prices—not at prices calculated in terms of how much can be exacted from people living somewhere else.

Three to One

The "omnibus" bill passed second reading in the House of Commons by a vote of 125 to 43. This bill extends for a year the power of the Government to control prices and distribution of commodities. In effect it will continue a large number of orders-in-council which would otherwise expire shortly.

The debate was lengthy, at times spirited, and disclosed three points of view. The policy of the Government is to abolish controls in an orderly way.

The CCF position was that there has been too much decontrol, that some controls should be restored, and—in general terms—that the longer controls are maintained the better. This was at least consistent. The party has little faith in private enterprise anyway. Its idea is that the way to make everybody happy is to hobble initiative, curb ambition, and keep a tight rein on productive industry.

The Conservative attitude was in a state of flux. It began with ringing declarations that the time had come to throw the control system in the ash-can, and let consumers and producers battle in the market place until prices and supplies found a level somewhere. Substantially that was the policy adopted at Washington some months ago, and which President Truman the other day threatened to cancel out and go back to controls.

But this stand was modified as time passed, and consumer-reaction was registered. In the end Mr. Diefenbaker said the party members would vote against the control-extending bill because they did not like bureaucracy, not because they did not think that some of the controls at least should be continued.

All this adds up to the conclusion that decontrol is a matter of when and what—save to the minority who want state interference with business always and everywhere.

The three-way cleavage in parliament reflects a three-way division of the public. The shifting of ground by Mr. Bracken's followers indicates a sense of failure on their part to capture wide support for the idea of scrapping controls forthwith and letting inflation run riot.

The final vote of 125 to 43 is probably about the proportion in which the public would vote on the question of continuing the power of the national executive to control—and decontrol by instalments, or to let this power lapse.

No Beets, No Sugar

Southern Alberta is not the only area in Canada where growers are finding it difficult to get labor to attend to the sugar-beet crop. Five hundred beet-field workers are coming from Europe to take jobs in the Chatham district, in western Ontario.

For whatever reason, Canadians do not seem to take to this kind of work in sufficient numbers to meet the need. High wages offered in munitions plants drew labor away from the fields in wartime, which could be understood. But that magnet has ceased to operate. Still, while men are reported idle in considerable numbers in some centres, man-power does not seem to be moving back to the beet-growing areas.

This being the case, the choice is to import beet-field labor or let the sugar-producing industry languish. It is not a relatively large industry, but is one for which some sections of the Dominion are naturally well adapted, and which it is desirable to keep going and expanding.

Since Canadians do not want to work in the fields, this is one type of immigration to which little objection is likely to be taken.

Columbia—suggests that there is not enough private profit in operation of such a pool to make them self-starting commercial adventures.

There is a grand hot springs near Terrace, British Columbia. There is a good-sized, thoroughly modern hospital there, completely equipped. It is a left-over from the war—now absolutely wasted.

It seems a shame that nobody wants this hospital at any price. It could be obtained from our War Assets Corporation (they tell me) for next to nothing. In fact, our War Assets Corporation has the "come and get it" sign hung out on many army hospital units all over the country. But nobody seems to want them.

Located where they are, they are not of much value to the general civilian population. Yet it is quite an expensive proposition to dismantle and move them. Most of these hospitals are hardly of the type that regular institutions would construct for permanent use.

But why look a gift horse in the mouth?

THEY HAD Bob Hope presiding at a big dinner in New York a few weeks ago. They were launching the United States campaign to fight rheumatism. You can always tell the character of a people by the kind of folks they get to give send-offs to such projects. In England they would get a duke, in Italy a cardinal. But in America, if something is really "big time," they get movie actors.

Rheumatism is really "big time." They tell me about five percent of the people have it all the time. The rheumatic fever form strikes hardest at children—often condemning the child to a bad heart or even shortened life.

Arthritis strikes all ages—and has done so, in both man and animal, all down through history.

Yet there has been less systematic research done into the cause and cure of arthritis than into any other major disease. This, too, in spite of the fact that most sufferers from the disease do make some sort of recovery—or adjustment to life. Many actually do get completely cured—when they can arrest the disease in the earlier stages—before the crippling effects become permanent.

WE HAVE MORE millionaires in Canada and the United States than we ever had before. We have in both countries governments that literally poured out money like water to develop atomic bombs.

What is wrong with us that we can't get right down to business and spend an adequate sum to find out about rheumatism?

What better way could a millionaire spend his or her surplus cash than by financing large-scale research into plain, old-fashioned "rheumatiz?"

Why give the champions of socialism the argument that only by socialism can we get such necessary things done?

Australian Immigration

Australia Magazine

An earnest hope that the free and assisted passage schemes under which United Kingdom migrants will be brought to Australia will operate early in 1947 was expressed by Immigration Minister Arthur A. Calwell in a recent statement.

Mr. Calwell, who was addressing the House of Representatives, said that these schemes were in the forefront of the Commonwealth's entire immigration program.

Shipping difficulties had so far made it impossible for the Australian and United Kingdom governments to declare them open but enquiries already registered from people in the United Kingdom totaled 63,700. These enquiries covered approximately 153,000 people in 866 occupational categories.

THE DATE for opening of the free and assisted passage schemes would be determined by the two governments as soon as possible. Decision, however, was entirely dependent on the ability of the governments to reach agreement with British shipping companies as to the fares to be charged during the currency of both schemes.

He said that the Commonwealth would be responsible for the recruiting, medical examination, selection, and transportation of all British migrants brought out under the free and assisted passage schemes, and for placing them in employment. The state governments would undertake responsibility for their reception and accommodation on arrival, and would, where necessary, bear the cost of the migrants' maintenance for a period of seven days after their arrival.

THE FARES of migrants from port of disembarkation to their final destination would be borne by the government of the state in which they were settling, except when private transportation was used, when the cost would be equally shared by the state and the Commonwealth. The Commonwealth and state governments would jointly meet the capital expenditure on governmental establishments in which migrants would be temporarily accommodated after their arrival.

Referring to the encouragement of child or youth migration by voluntary organizations, Mr. Calwell emphasized that government assistance was uniformly available to all religious and secular organizations wishing to introduce child migrants and youths. Generally speaking, the Commonwealth government and the state governments concerned would each bear one-third of any capital expenditure for the accommodation of these migrants.

MR. CALWELL said that in the early stages of the free and assisted passage schemes it was likely more migrants would be offered that could be carried in available shipping and a system of priorities would be introduced. Highest priorities would include nominated migrants classed as essential workers for Australian industry, for whom accommodation was provided. Any system of priorities would be flexible, to meet special cases. In the early stages transport and accommodation difficulties would mean that preference would be given to single persons. Later it might be practicable to grant family units priority.

REVIEWING special arrangements made for men and women of the British Forces to remain permanently in Australia after their discharge from service, Mr. Calwell said that the only requirement was that the prospective migrant was of sound health and good character. To the present, over 4,500 applications had been approved in Australia, and more than 200 by Australian government representatives overseas. Special facilities had also been given to allied servicemen, particularly of the United States and the Netherlands to encourage them to remain in Australia or to return after discharge in their homelands. Over 1,000 United States servicemen had been granted their discharges in Australia and permission to return had been granted to many others.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT benefits similar to those granted Australian ex-service personnel in regard to employment aids, transitional unemployment allowances, training, re-establishment loans, fares to employment, and assistance with tools of trade, would be available to British and allied ex-service personnel. They were not, however, eligible for preference in employment under the Australian Soldiers' Repatriation Act.

surplus in our federal income and expenditure for the fiscal year ending March 31 1947.

Some time ago it was also stated by a federal minister that children's allowances for the same period were estimated to cost some $250 millions, a large percentage of which would be paid to parents who could well afford to raise a family on their present income.

From time to time we hear that some action will be taken to improve the old age pension legislation, but such action has not materialized, yet, an estimated surplus of half a billion dollars is in the offing.

What a disgrace to Canada and its so-called legislation to condemn the old folks, who made this country what it is, raised their families on less than half the wages that a mere boy or girl is paid today, to exist on the paltry pensions paid at present and then declare a surplus of half a billion.

Such a situation simply stinks.

This Canada of ours is a mighty fine country, except for its legislators who will readily vote themselves a fifty per cent increase in salary and then hesitate to grant even a living pension to the aged.

VLA Mineral Rights

BY HARPER PROWSE, MLA

The discovery of oil, and the prospects of new discoveries, in the province has revived an old complaint against the Soldiers' Settlement Board dating back to the time when that agency began functioning after the first great war. In all lands sold to veterans by the board, mineral rights were retained in the name of the Crown. Veterans who bought land from the SSB find that neighbours who acquired their lands through civilian channels hold valuable mineral rights while the veteran does not.

The complaint does not apply to veterans of this war who are purchasing land under the VLA for the VLA turns over title to the veteran of all rights they purchased. Thus, if the VLA purchase a farm for a veteran, and when they take title the mineral rights are vested in the titleholder, these rights are transferred to the veteran. Only in cases where mineral rights are withheld in the original title will the veteran not receive them when he purchases the farm.

JUST WHY the SSB took the stand they did after the first war I do not know. But I do know that in spite of continual agitation for the past 25 years to get them to change their ruling in this respect no change has been made in the regulations.

This question is further complicated now due to the fact that the Dominion some years ago turned over the mineral rights with all other natural resources to the provinces. So that although the veteran bought his land from the Dominion through the SSB the mineral rights withheld by the Dominion at that time have since been surrendered by the Dominion to the provinces. Thus any attempt to replace these rights will involve discussion not only with the Dominion government but with the province as well. Whether any satisfactory arrangement can be reached at this late date remains to be seen.

Veterans who are buying from the VLA now should not imagine, merely because policy has changed, that when they buy a farm they are getting mineral rights as well. While some lands owned by the individuals were transferred to them in freehold with the mineral rights intact, in a majority of the farms in the province today, title is to the surface only with mineral rights either reserved to the crown or some other individual party.

SO VETERANS should check their titles and if there is a clause reserving the mineral rights in the name of the Crown or some other named party then the title covers surface rights only. In this case the veteran cannot cash in on the mineral rights. If they can only hope to collect damages caused, if any, by the action of those who wish to gain access to the mineral deposits.

FOUR MONTHS before the outbreak of the war Mr. Attlee led the Labor party in opposition to conscription. The phrases and the words used then are almost exactly the phrases and words the Labor rebels used against the government in the present debate.

Mr. Clement Davis, leader of the Parliamentary Liberal party, took his group into opposition with the Labor rebels. "What was the emergency facing the country?" he asked. "What is the danger?"

"I have seen the lights of liberty being dimmed one by one but now the greatest one of all, the free will of British subjects, is being challenged, and challenged in such a way that it will become part and parcel of the supposed democratic government of this country."

It is here the real issue lies. Peacetime conscription has been the bane of British society for centuries. Now it has been introduced at the end of a great war, when the nation's enemies have just been defeated. Mr. Davies' "Why?" will be echoed in many hearts.

"Now, in the long swing of events, the Prime Minister and the Minister of Defence, who refused in May, 1939, to vote for conscription against Hitler and Nazism. . . . Come forward in a time of peace and victory to ask us to support conscription against some other danger, some other dictatorship, which I do not propose this afternoon precisely to define."

London: Conscription has officially joined foreign policy as an issue over which there is sufficient difference of opinion to cause divisions in the Labor party.

Seventy Labor MPs voted against the government during second reading of the National Service bill and at least thirty more indicated their disapproval of peacetime conscription by abstaining in the face of a three-line whip.

This was a far more serious revolt than that led by Mr. R. H. Crossman on foreign policy, earlier in the session. Mr. Crossman and his friends did not carry their opposition into the lobbies. On this occasion, however, the government was forced into the invidious position of relying upon Tory support to carry through a major article of government policy.

TRADITIONAL thinking, conditioned by long years of opposition, is hard to abandon and the transition from the comparative freedom of a minority party to the stricter discipline of government has left not a few members floundering desperately. For years the party has fought conscription as a menace to the workman, as the next step to some other and more dangerous type of repression.

The issue of conscription, involving as it does, manpower, will be revived as long as the crisis lasts but meanwhile Mr. Churchill was quick to remind the House of Commons of the extreme irony of the situation.

"Now, in the long swing of events, the Prime Minister and the Minister of Defence, who refused in May, 1939, to vote for conscription against Hitler and Nazism. . . . Come forward in a time of peace and victory to ask us to support conscription

Attlee Announces Cabinet Changes

LONDON, April 18 (CP)—Prime Minister Attlee yesterday named new British ministers for India and Germany in a long-awaited cabinet reshuffle that left Ernest Bevin entrenched as foreign secretary.

A GOVERNMENT in formant said the changes "finally kill" speculation that Bevin would be replaced, and thus constitute "endorsement" of Bevin's close-to-the-United States foreign policy in the face of frequent sharp criticism from more than 100 "rebels" within the Labor Party.

Herbert Morrison remained as deputy prime minister, charged with planning the country's economic recovery despite persistent reports which said Attlee was considering Bevin for a job as a "super-planner."

Baron Pethick-Lawrence, 76-year-old Secretary of State for India, resigned and was replaced by the Postmaster General the Earl of Listowel, 40.

J. B. HYNED, who as Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster was the minister responsible for administration of the British zone of Germany, was replaced by Lord Pakenham, now Parliamentary under-secretary of State for War.

Poignant Scenes in Morgue As Blast Dead Identified

TEXAS CITY, TEX., April 18 (AP)—A brown-haired woman screamed. A nurse in the high school gymnasium, now a ghastly morgue, hastened to her.

"That's him, that's him," the woman screamed.

She had not recognized her husband's face. The upper part of his body, stretched on a slab, was covered by an army blanket. But she had seen his feet. That was enough.

The night before he went to work for the last time at the chemical plant here, she had painted his toenails with fingernail polish as a lark.

That was among the poignant scenes last night in the central high school gymnasium. Mutilated bodies lay in rows, some on canvas stretchers, some on the floor.

Grief-stricken wives, mothers and sisters searched for loved ones among the victims of the searing blasts which killed more than 600 persons and left thousands injured.

Wails filled the building. Worse than that were the empty, unfeeling faces of those who would not cry.

The terrible stench of blood and embalming fluid filled the nostrils and drove nurses, morticians and deputies outside for air at intervals.

Few had the courage to pull back the blankets covering the victims. But in some cases that was the only way to find identifying marks.

Emil Stark, 26-year-old machinist whose 26-year-old brother, Ernest, was killed in the explosions, moaned and sobbed as he left the gymnasium.

"He got through the war and wasn't hurt."

Many bodies were charred, making recognition impossible. Underneath some blankets lay arms, legs and torsos.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., April 18 (AP)—Parole of 76 Illinois penitentiary prisoners who volunteered for wartime experiments that yielded valuable anti-malarial drugs was announced today. The men had served an average of six years and 14 days. The cases of 287 other prisoners serving longer terms under definite sentences later will be heard.

Heavy Booking For Jasper Park Lodge

Advance flood of reservations for The Lodge at Jasper National Park is probably the heaviest in history, J. P. Stark, Ottawa, manager of The Lodge, said here Friday.

The Lodge will be officially opened to tourists on June 15, but will be actually opened on June 8 when the Canadian Broadcasters Association holds its annual convention. The convention will continue until June 23 and about 350 delegates are expected to attend.

The Lodge has a staff of 325 including many Edmontonians. Several pre-war employees are rejoining the staff this season, Mr. Stark said.

J. B. Baisley, now on the staff of the Macdonald hotel here, will return to Jasper again this year as reservations clerk.

Mr. Stark is accompanied by his wife and they plan to go to Jasper this week-end to make preliminary plans for the opening.

Buyers' Interests To Be Protected

The Edmonton Consumers Council was formed Thursday at a meeting attended by representatives of 28 city organizations. The council has been formed "to protect the interests of the citizens as consumers."

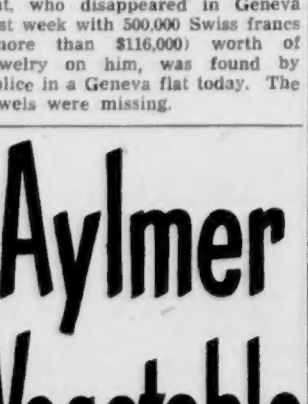

The meeting was called by the Edmonton Cost of Living Committee, and was called at the Labor Temple. This committee was originally set up by the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council to enquire into increases in living costs, subsequent to removal of certain controls, and also on the general index cost increase.

A constitution for the new organization was adopted at the meeting and a permanent executive will be elected in the near future.

Aid Supervision By UN Doomed

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 18 (AP)—Russia's effort to place United States aid to Greece under United Nations supervision was doomed today by majority opposition in the Security Council.

A United States proposal that the council's Balkan investigation commission leave representatives in Greece temporarily to watch over the troubled frontier situation appeared assured of majority approval but might be vetoed by Russia.

BOTH BRITAIN and France announced they opposed the Soviet move for a special security council commission to supervise the Greek part of President Truman's $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid program.

The negative vote of either was enough to kill the Russian resolution. They were backed, however, by majority support to block the proposal without invoking the veto.

Awaiting a council decision were these questions:

1. A United States proposal that the council order its Balkan investigating commission to leave representatives in the troubled area until the council has acted on its report, now being prepared in Geneva.

2. A RUSSIAN proposal that the council establish a United Nations commission to supervise American or any other kind of outside aid to Greece.

Canada failed yesterday in a determined effort to get a direct, detailed answer from Russia on the key question of international atomic inspection.

"Work or Want" Britain's Slogan

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
LONDON, April 18.—(CP)—The government today launched a country-wide "we're-up-against-it" campaign with a warning from Sir Stafford Cripps that unless the country produces more and soon "we shall have to go without a lot of even those things we've got today."

The government's slogan is: "We work or want."

However, while Sir Stafford, president of the board of trade, said that Britain's whole economic future is in the balance, he told newspaper men at a press conference: "In a couple of years I hope we'll be out of the red."

More coal, more exports and better distribution of manpower are the biggest needs, he said. Coal was the greatest problem.

"We need at least 11,000,000 tons more coal this year so that Britain's factories, instead of working at only two-thirds of capacity, can work at full blast," a poster's message reads.

New Delhi, seat of the central government and legislature, is the capital of India.

Wallace In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, April 18 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace told Swedish newspaper men last night that small European countries have a great, perhaps determining role to play in the world's search for peace. Arriving from Britain, he was greeted at the airport by an 80-voice male workers' choir.

Here Is Secret Good Bubble Bath

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP)—Paulette Goddard's bubble bath figured yesterday in the trial of 42 auxiliary make-up men who seek membership in an AFL union. Charles Hansen told a superior judge it was his pleasant duty to prepare the bath for Paulette in a movie not yet released. The soapuds, which prevent too much of Miss Goddard being seen by the camera, he explained, are white of egg.

Moslems Need "Fair Deal" Says Pakistan Not Solution for India

LONDON, April 18.—(Reuters)—Richard G. Casey, Australian-born governor of Bengal from 1944 to 1946, is convinced that Pakistan (separate Moslem state) is not the solution of the Moslem problems in India.

IN HIS BOOK "An Australian in India," published in London, Casey says:

"I do not believe that even today the bulk of Moslems have given anything like enough thought to the demand for Pakistan. . . They accept the fact that Jinnah (Mohammed Ali Jinnah, Moslem League president) says he wants Pakistan, and their deep faith in his leadership leads them to accept the idea."

Casey, who was a member of the British war cabinet and now is back in Australia, adds he is convinced that the Indian solution lies "in substantial and effective safeguards for Moslems in an all-India constitution and government to insure that Moslems get a fair deal and maybe rather more than a fair deal to compensate them for disabilities that have been imposed on them in the past and to give them an opportunity of catching up."

THE ONLY WAY that Moslems can advance themselves economically, Casey continues, is to achieve education and learn how to compete successfully with Hindus.

Casey says that he believes "it has become quite impossible for the Congress Party and the Moslem League to come to voluntary agreement on any matter of consequence and still less on the major issue of the future of India."

"If I am right in this view then the solution will have to be imposed by Great Britain."

Yukon Can Support Only 300,000 Persons

VANCOUVER, April 18 (CP)—The Yukon will never support millions of people but it will continue to be a rich source of minerals and furs and may some day be developed agriculturally, Dr. J. L. Robinson, University of British Columbia geologist said yesterday. Dr. Robinson said the Yukon, still one of the world's leading producers of gold after half a century of production, could not support more than 200,000 to 300,000 persons. A permanent population would require agricultural development of the territory.

Honor Auriel Joliat At Montreal Game

MONTREAL, APRIL 18 (CP)—The little fellow with the black peaked cap returned to Montreal last night amid the acclaim of thousands of fans to receive the scroll of membership in hockey's hall of fame for his contribution to a game he helped make famous.

This was Auriel Joliat night at Montreal forum and the more than 12,000 spectators at the fifth game of the Stanley Cup final between Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs joined in a tremendous ovation when the great little leftwinger who played 16 seasons for the Habits was introduced.

Many fans in the amphitheatre remembered Joliat, the "little man of iron" who was one of hockey's finest stick handlers.

The common symptom of all anemias is shortness of breath, as well as characteristic pallor.

"Bad" Boy Makes Good on Alleys

TORONTO, April 18 (CP)—William Mills, a Toronto schoolboy of 13 bowled himself into trouble yesterday.

If he hadn't rolled 13 consecutive strikes for a perfect score of 450 in a five-pin game with a chum, his mother probably would never have known he played hooky from school.

His sin found him out when the manager of the bowling alley phoned the boy's home to get his age.

Toronto bowling authorities said they believed he is the youngest bowler in Canada to get a perfect five-pin score.

DISTRICT NEWS IN BRIEF

Lloydminster Ponders Revised Light Rates

LLOYDMINSTER, April 18.—The franchise held by the Canadian Utilities, that served the town of Lloydminster with electric power for the last 20 years, becomes void this fall.

AT THE LAST meeting of the town council, M. McGregor of Calgary, representing the company, applied for a renewal of the franchise for the next ten-year period. He offered the council a reduced rate for electrical lighting and power in the town, showing reductions in both the residential and commercial schedules.

The new schedule is being considered by the light committee of the council and an early decision is anticipated.

THE TOWN COUNCIL has made application to the attorney-general of the province of Saskatchewan, requesting that another policeman be stationed at Lloydminster. The reason for the extra man is to cope with the steady growth in the population. At present it is policed by the RCMP, with two men of the detachment assigned to town duty.

A large attendance and considerable interest was manifested in the development of a strong baseball club, at a meeting held recently. Gar Lawson will again be in the presidential chair, with Ken Bentley as vice-president. Those named to the executive are: Mel Lavold, Frank Hamilton, Ray Nelson, Gus Johnson and Arnold Gunn. W. Masterson is the secretary-treasurer. Plans are for a three-team league.

Club Meets

VEGREVILLE, April 18.—The Vegreville Ranger Hockey club, Eastern Alberta League champions, was honored with a banquet sponsored by the Vegreville Chamber of Commerce, at the Alberia hotel recently.

President S. W. Pawluk welcomed the members and congratulated them on behalf of all present, for the excellent brand of hockey put on by them during the recent season.

Mayor C. B. McClure, president of the Vegreville Hockey Association, and coach of the Rangers, presented each member of the team with a leather jacket. Harry Kreurisk, manager, gave pictures of the team to the players.

The hockey team was comprised of: John Hantluk, captain; Nestor Charuk, Allen Klein, George Dowhaniuk, Hymie Klein, Bill Flichuk, Jim Easton, Alven Henderson, Mat Ponech, Bud Bradshaw, Harry Cikaliuk, Walter Dowhaniuk, George Hantluk, Stanley Porter, John Skakum and Roy Lisogor. The coach and manager received jackets and pictures on behalf of the team.

Writes Book

KITSICOTY, April 18.—"The Flaming Hour," a book of great interest to Kitsicoty residents, is rolling off the presses this week. A former local boy, Professor Eddie A. McCourt, is the author. The story is a "Western" like the author, whose own life story is almost as interesting.

Edward A. McCourt was born in Ireland in 1907 and two years later was brought to Canada by his parents. They settled on a farm in the Kitsicoty district. He took his education at the local school, later graduating from the University of Alberta. Mr. McCourt is an enthusiastic sportsman. He played football for the Alberta Golden Bears, and still holds western intercollegiate records in javelin and hammer throwing. He was chosen a Rhodes Scholar, played hockey for Oxford, and held the British Universities' record for hammer throwing. While at Oxford he studied under Edmund Blunden, the poet. Returning to Canada, he taught at Ridley College, Upper Canada College, Queens University and the University of New Brunswick, finally coming to his home in the west in 1944, as professor of English, in the University of Saskatchewan. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McCourt, reside in Kitsicoty.

Olds High School Needs Dictionary

OLDS, April 18.—The meeting of the Baron Tweedsmuir chapter of the IOOE, was held at the home of Mrs. F. Parkinson on Monday night April 14. Mrs. A. Elliot was assistant hostess.

Mrs. J. P. Shrader, delegate to the provincial annual meeting, gave a report. The educational secretary, Mrs. Parkinson, reported that a new large dictionary was needed in the high school, and the chapter decided to share the cost of purchase with the Home and School association.

Letters were received from two Olds boys on the war ship Warrior thanking the chapter for Easter boxes received at Halifax.

A silver spoon with crest of the order was presented to a departing member Mrs. J. B. Wilks. In honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilks, who are leaving on an extended visit to England, the choir of Knox United Church entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Craig. Presentations were made to both honor guests.

A DINNER HELD at the Athabasca hotel, started off the evening, and was attended by the guests of honor, relatives and close friends. Open house was held in the Speare home, following the dinner. Arrangements were made by Mrs. D. Gaudin.

SPRUCE GROVE, April 18.—The recent dance sponsored by the school children was a successful event. The only regret being that the hall could not accommodate all those to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Emary Callihan and family left for a month's holiday in the States. Mrs. William McLeod left for Vancouver and Westminster recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Schermund returned recently from the east where they visited relatives.

Blind City Lad "Pinafore" Star

BRANTFORD, Ont., April 18.—(CP)—A performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore", that mixed acting ability with courage in almost equal proportions, was performed here and a group of "actors" from the Canadian west took starring honors.

THE ACTORS were of high school age and... totally blind.

Henry Hoglund of Edmonton gave a starring performance as the ship's carpenter and he was assisted by Peter Hugo, Ghost Pine Creek, Alta., as the boat's Terry Cherniawsky, Mundare, Alta., played Able Seaman Rafe Rakestraw and Muriel Mitchell, Lloydminster, Alta., as Buttercup and Frances Rayko, Lethbridge as Hebe, gave creditable performances.

Vaccination Adds To Wedding Trouble

NEW YORK, April 18 (AP)—New York City's wholesale vaccinations may be keeping thousands safe from smallpox, but they are not an unmitigated blessing to a few hundred prospective brides and grooms. About 30 per cent of just-vaccinated couples with positive primary reactions are discovering that the vaccine causes a positive reaction to the Wasserman test. Since they can't get married unless they can produce a negative Wasserman, proving they are free of infectious syphilis, the prospective newlyweds must take a Kahn verification test, which separates the "false positive" factor from the blood and permits a true test for syphilis.

Must Share Estate With Wife's Cats

BELVIDERE, N.J., April 18.—(AP)—Alfred G. Tinsman will share the bulk of his wife's substantial estate with several cats, kittens and a herd of cattle. An animal lover, Mrs. Edna Cline Tinsman, died last week after her husband's death. Her home was transformed into "an animal refuge."

Strange Birth

WINCHESTER, Ont., April 18.—(CP)—A cow owned by Earl Barkley has given birth to a heifer calf which is believed to be part cow and part deer. The calf has long, slender legs, pointed hoofs, a narrow nose and walks with its head in the air, all characteristics of the deer family.

Insurance Men Meet

Life Underwriters Aim To Improve Services

A better service to the people of northern Alberta should result from the congress of life insurance underwriters held in the Corona hotel Thursday, according to views expressed by the more than 100 delegates attending.

THE CONGRESS held by the Northern Alberta Life Underwriters association, concluded with a banquet in the Macdonald hotel.

ADDRESSES BY William King, St. Louis, Mo., and Ferdinand de Heerne, Montreal, president of the Canadian association, featured the congress. Both speakers presented technical aspects of life insurance selling in an able manner.

Gordon Nairn, Toronto, executive president of the Dominion association, stressed opportunities for civic and national service that the life insurance business can perform.

The future of democracy is based on the thought and effort of the individual citizen puts forth in the community, Mr. Nairn said, adding that it should be the aim of insurance companies to have even higher standards of agent training.

JAMES E. MAY, Lethbridge, regional vice-president and C. Sheldon Buckles, Calgary, spoke on career life insurance.

At the banquet D. M. Ford, representative of the provincial department of insurance.

together with bits of Scotch tape and twisted paper clips, her face heavily lined, the once straight, proud line of her platen bent with age and a tear dropped with a tiny splash on her breast.

"Never," I said, "not while she still has the will to lift a key." Emma would have wanted it this way, I felt.

Plus Brains

Men who work with machines, whether they're giant dynamos or wrist watches, come to know the idiosyncrasies of their charges, but with Emma and me it went deeper than that. Emma knew my idiosyncrasies two days after we had taken up housekeeping together.

How else explain the fact that she invariably jams or shreds her ribbon when we're working together on something we know would be better left undone? How else explain the new lightness in those aging keys, the cheerful, encouraging clack of her long, iron fingers when the juice of an idea is flowing? How else, indeed?

When I think now of the shameful treatment I've given her through these long years, sometimes cursing her for hours at end, sometimes spending late nights at the office with other machines, I know the meaning of regret. If Emma comes through the operation alive her last years will be spent in luxury. She will be fed only the best words in the house.

Only once was there any suggestion of disloyalty from Emma and I couldn't blame her. She was so right. On this occasion we were en route to British Guiana, and I had boarded the Pan-American Clipper after a half-hour stopover at a Venezuela airport. It was hot. Hot enough to make your clothes cling like wet adhesive. I was already learning to hate South America. I wanted to go home to mama.

When the plane had lifted into the burning sky I found that Emma was missing. The air line people told me afterwards that they simply couldn't understand it. Somehow she had got on a northbound plane and they had finally caught up with her in Miami where I would have been myself. If I'd had the brains of an idiot.

No one will ever convince me that this was merely some baggage clerk's error. Emma knew where she was going.

And Overseas

During the war I carried Emma all over Europe and she has every right to call herself a veteran. Thousands of francs changed hands over her case as a table for blackjack. Under the camouflage of bright air line and steamship stickers there are still the stains of a spilled glass of the drink called Calvados.

She had made the landing on the shores of Normandy, sliding down a long canvas chute into a barge and suffering a wound in her side that has troubled her ever since. Scores of famous war correspondents had used her carelessly, and she had put up with them without complaint.

She, herself, would probably best remember the troops who used her to write long letters home and perhaps, particularly, an infantry lieutenant named "Duke" Cleroux who spent the better part of a night in a barn beside the Maas River, deliciously happy at seeing a typewriter in that land and writing a book-length letter to his wife in Montreal, perhaps the last he ever wrote.

These things are not lightly forgotten and I am keeping the vigil at her bedside until the crisis is passed. For life would not be quite complete without my Emma.

NARROW ESCAPE: Gerry Ward, Kingsway Legion Hut, narrowly escaped serious injuries when his veteran Model-T lost a wheel, took to the ditch and rolled over earlier this week near 122 avenue and 123 street. Ward suffered bruises and scratches around the head and face. He is shown above inspecting his wrecked auto which shows signs of definite rough treatment.

In North America

Lutherans Operate 57 Mercy Institutes

The Augustana Synod has no less than 57 institutions of mercy, in which its membership participates on the North American continent, the Rev. Thorsten A. Gustafson, of Minneapolis, Minn., director of stewardship, Lutheran Augustana Synod of North America, reported at the opening service of the Canada Conference here on Thursday.

THESE MERCY institutes are as follows: 19 homes for the aged, 12 children's homes, 10 hospitals, 13 convalescent homes and two invalid homes. Mr. Gustafson revealed that the Synod is interpreting the call of the "Risen Lord" in four distinct fields.

Some 55 pastors and lay delegates are in attendance to participate in the four-day convention, representing Western Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

THE CONFERENCE sermon was delivered by the vice-president, the theme was "Walk in Love".

Due to the illness of the Rev. J. Arvid Vikman, the words of welcome were spoken by the Rev. Arthur Eriksson.

"If done in the name of Christ, that is parish evangelism," said the Rev. Paul Swenson, in his devotion service Friday morning. His topic was "Walk in Love, in Parish Evangelism."

THE WMS missionary festival, with the Rev. Dr. B. Hjalmar Swanson as the speaker, will be held in the First Presbyterian

Support Urged For Northern Highway

Support of the proposed highway from Winnipeg through Saskatoon, Edmonton, Jasper, Blue River and Vancouver, was urged on all organizations and individuals, by Mayor Harry Ainlay, at a dinner meeting of the South Edmonton Business Men's Association held in the Knox United Church on Thursday.

HE EXPLAINED that the highway would follow the route of the Canadian National Railways. The present highway, he pointed out, follows the Canadian Pacific Railway, and winds through the Big Bend. He said the latter highway route had some dangerous features.

THE HIGHWAY, he said, would not only benefit Edmonton, but all of Canada. "New Lands to Old" and "Persia Faces Today" were two technical travelogue films shown by the Imperial Oil Company which depicted an expedition starting from Paris in 1939 and ending in India.

George Muir acted as projectionist. Frank Cowles presided at the meeting.

Plan New Building For AGT Equipment

Storage capacity for Alberta government telephones mechanical and technical equipment will be provided in a new two-storey $225,000 brick building to be constructed just west of the city telephone building on 102 avenue. Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of railways and telephones, announced Friday.

Construction on the new building will commence as soon as demolition of the garage now standing on the site is completed.

The department now is receiving tenders for the tearing down of the old structure.

General offices of the AGT, now in the CPR building will not be moved to the new location. The minister would make no announcement as to the location of the government building which will be used for these offices.

Former Officer Is Visiting City

G. H. Risdon-Bennett, cadet training officer for M.D. 13, during the Second World War, is an Edmonton visitor Friday.

Mr. Risdon-Bennett is now building and property engineer for War Assets Corp. in Alberta and part of the North West Territories. He said that sales of war assets property are continuing steadily.

Hooke to Speak

Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary is guest speaker at a meeting of the Kinmen's club on Friday evening. The minister will tell the members some of the aspects of the tourist situation.

Sport In Canada Reaches New High

Canada is experiencing the greatest sports boom in all history, and manufacturers are hard-pressed to meet the demands for sporting goods of all kinds, Bert O'Leary, Toronto, general sales manager of A. G. Spalding Co., of Canada, said here Friday.

Baseballs are more plentiful this spring.

During the war years Mr. O'Leary was co-ordinator of sporting goods for the Canadian armed forces.

It was a huge task. The following were supplied to the forces overseas and elsewhere: 100,000 softballs; 100,000 softball bats; 25,000 baseballs; 25,000 bats and many other sporting items.

The sports boom has the enthusiastic backing of the Dominion government because it was found out that 50 out of every 100 persons examined for the armed forces was physically unfit, Mr. O'Leary said.

As an example of how sport

The Book of Knowledge

America Before Columbus

This and the following articles are taken from the Book of Knowledge and can be clipped for saving in a reference book.

The Iroquoian Tribes

In yesterday's article, we told you of the Algonkian-speaking Indians of eastern America—two large groups of tribes which were separated by the territory occupied by the group of Iroquoian-speaking tribes. Though the life of the latter in some respects was similar to that of the Algonkians, they had many distinctive customs of their own.

The Iroquoian tribes lived in "long houses" covered with bark. Several families lived in a house, each family having a fire in the central passage. Life was very public. The children played to and around the fires; everyone could see what everyone else was doing.

Iroquoian making pottery with "sausage" of clay

A village consisted of ten or twenty houses, often surrounded by a stockade. The villages were moved from time to time, as the fields around them became exhausted.

Like the Algonkians, the Iroquoians used wood extensively. Instead of bark for canoes, however, they hollowed their craft from solid tree trunks, using fire to char the wood, and then chiseling it out with stone adzes. They made baskets of spruce roots and sometimes of birch bark, although sections of split ash wood were more frequently used.

The Iroquoians used shell extensively for ornament, obtaining the large shells in trade and cutting them into ornamental pieces which were used as pendants. Clam shells were cut in circular discs which were strung as beads, or sewn in patterns. This type of worked shell became known as wampum and was often used as money. To bind treaties between different tribes, it was customary to exchange belts of valuable wampum.

Another industry of the Iroquoians was pottery. It was made by the women, who rolled out "sausage" of clay.

Wants Government Educate Indians

By VICTOR MACKIE

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, April 18.—A strong recommendation that responsibility for the education of the Indian in Canada be left with the Dominion government was made to the joint Senate and Commons committee on Indian affairs, Thursday, by Dr. Andrew Moore, Winnipeg, inspector of secondary schools for the Manitoba government.

INDIANS ACROSS Canada were in various stages of cultural development, Dr. Moore declared. It was essential that the responsibility for their education be located in Ottawa so as to better co-ordinate the curricula and system of teaching in the Indian schools. Dominion Indian affairs officials knew more about what was required by the Indian in the form of education than any one in the Manitoba education department, he said, when asked if he did not think provincial authorities would be in a better position to supervise Indian schools. However, he stressed that in locating the responsibility for educating Indians at Ottawa the system should not be rigid, there would have to be responsible officials in each province to give a certain measure of decentralization.

Viscount Awards 112 Decorations

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Viscount Alexander, the governor-general, personally awarded 112 decorations ranging from the Companion of Honor to the British Empire medal in a full-dress investiture at Rideau hall yesterday.

HEADED BY AWARD of the Companion of Honor to Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian army overseas and now a member of the Canadian-United States joint defence board, the recipients were mostly navy, army and air force officers and were being decorated for valiant war services. In some cases the awards—most of them previously announced—were posthumous, with the next-of-kin receiving the decorations.

Mrs. B. M. Burrisson came from her Malboro, Alta., home to accept the military medal on behalf of her son, the late L-Sgt. R. L. Burrisson.

Mrs. Emily Taylor of Victoria accepted a bar to the D.F.C. on behalf of her son, the late FO Richard W. Taylor.

Wheat Stocks

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Stocks of Canadian wheat in all North American positions at March 31 this year totaled 245,400,000 bushels, of gain of 33,000,000 bushels over last year's corresponding total of 212,400,000, the Dominion bureau of statistics reported yesterday.

Public health enemy No. 2 to cancer. During 1944, there were 14,271 deaths in Canada from cancer, or 12.3 per cent of all deaths that year, say national health authorities.

The Five Nations became famous as warriors, spreading fear among other Indians and white settlers alike. They adopted captives to replace their braves who fell in battle and thus maintained the traditions of their people. Few people have played as large a part in history with as small numbers, and even to-day the surviving Iroquoians maintain a shadow of their national life.

Iroquoian religion centered around three sisters, Corn, Squash and Tobacco, supernatural beings who were believed to be responsible for these basic crops. Ceremonies included crop festivals associated with the changing seasons. Priests were those who had had particular experiences or who had special knowledge. In the council of the league, moreover, the priests had particular duties to perform, in fact, the league of the Iroquoians was partly a religious institution.

When Columbus discovered America, there were perhaps a million Iroquoians living north of Mexico. There are about half that number now, though not all are of pure Indian stock.

Manning Endorses Drive On Cancer

Wholehearted endorsement and support of the Alberta division of the Canadian Cancer Society's campaign to raise $25,000 in Edmonton and Northern Alberta was expressed in a statement issued Friday by Premier Ernest Manning.

The premier expressed the earnest hope that the appeal for funds to carry on its important humanitarian work may prove the most successful in the history of the society.

Text of Premier Manning's statement follows:

I welcome this opportunity to give the Alberta Division of the Canadian Cancer Society the wholehearted endorsement and support of the provincial government in its appeal for necessary funds to carry on its important humanitarian work.

Cancer now ranks as the second cause of death in Canada. In Alberta, cancer is second on the list of causes of death and is responsible for an average of two deaths per day throughout the year. While it chiefly attacks those in the older age groups, no age group is immune from this disease.

IT IS OF VITAL importance that every person should be fully informed as to the nature and especially the early signs and symptoms of the disease to the end that it may be recognized in its earliest stages and promptly and effectively treated by competent medical authorities.

The education of the public in regard to all phases of cancer is a work of national importance and this is the work in which the Alberta Division of the Canadian Cancer Society is actively engaged. It is imperative that we wage the war against cancer on all fronts and we must see to it that all our forces are working in the closest co-operation.

The educational campaign is of major importance in the war against cancer and I therefore wish to extend my congratulations to the Alberta division of the Canadian Cancer Society on the splendid work it is doing and to express, on behalf of the government, the earnest hope that the present campaign may prove the most successful in the history of the society.

Says CPR Outlook "Not Very Healthy"

By John LeBlanc

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Outlook for the Canadian Pacific Railway is "not very healthy," N. R. Crump, vice-president and general manager of the CPR's eastern lines, declared yesterday before the Board of Transport Commissioners.

IN SUPPORT of the railways' application for higher freight rates, Mr. Crump expressed belief the lines faced further rises in costs through increases in wage rates and material prices.

Asked by Alberta counsel J. J. Frawley if his company expected further wage increases, the vice-president said it "certainly" looked for requests for them.

Mr. Crump's opinion as to the CPR's state of health came on questions by Mr. Frawley on the company's financial reserves.

The Alberta counsel wanted to know his views on company instructions to curtail maintenance work, in the light of the CPR's holdings of more than $50,000,000 in cash and liquid securities and a $35,000,000 reserve of supplies and materials.

MR. CRUMP said he looked to increasing wage rates and material costs and added: "The outlook for 1947 to me is not very healthy."

The CPR, he told Mr. Frawley, was hauling freight at the lowest revenue rate per ton-mile of any country. For 1945, its rate was 33 cents, against .56 in the United States, .29 in Britain and .67 in Japan. He felt that at present the Japanese figure was higher than Canada's.

Mr. Frawley asked if it were not correct that the CPR got as high as 5.7 cents per ton-mile on some business, for instance on the haulage of apples from Kelowna, B.C., to Banff, Alta., as compared with 2.5 cents between Hamilton, Ont., and Pembroke, Ont.

When Mr. Crump said he did not know, Mr. Frawley said this was the case, and he also declared that petroleum was being carried from Alberta refineries at 2.8 cents per ton-mile as compared with 2.86 from Ontario refineries.

THE VICE-president, whose field in operations, said these rates were beyond the scope of his knowledge.

Isaac Pittblado, chief railway counsel, said that while Mr. Frawley was arguing that Alberta "got the worst of all these rates," that province had benefited through "very low" haulage charges on export grain.

Bridegroom, 84 Said "Kissless"

SAN JOSE, Calif., April 18.—(AP)—An 84-year-old self-described "kissless bridegroom" yesterday was granted an annulment of his marriage to 18-year-old Onida Stillings after he had told the judge he was "through with women."

Benjamin F. Harris said that Onida had become his fourth wife. He had been married four times before. First, he had been married to a woman who had become his fourth wife and the aunt and uncle were running the auto court.

ATHENS, April 18.—(Reuters)—EAM, the left-wing coalition, today called Henry A. Wallace, former United States vice-president now touring Europe, inviting him to Greece "to study the situation at first hand."

Dr. Whitton Talks At Rotary Meet

"What communities need is a conservation and salvage corps of both paid and volunteer personnel," said Dr. Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa, in her speech on "A Sound Public Welfare," at a Rotary Club luncheon in the Macdonald hotel Thursday.

SHE EXPLAINED that a community which offers to carry the burden of adequate protection of the welfare, health and education of its people, naturally is committed to assure opportunities for gainful occupation and decent community living.

A broad public welfare policy she went on to say, "should contemplate conditions of work opportunity, decent shelter, and good health and recreational services."

She pointed out that actual welfare provision should include over-all relief assistance of a constructive nature; funds for mother's allowances and dependent children, and for the aged and blind; child protective services for both the community and a child's home; and funds for services and institutions.

Funds must be assured whether by the individual, by the community from public or voluntary funds, or by a combination of both.

Sam Dickson introduced T. Earl Pinch, a new member. Another new member, E. W. Stubbards, was introduced by Frank King.

The Catholic Youth Organization of Edmonton will sponsor its annual drama festival in the Masonic Temple next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 23, 24 and 25. Halifax May Help Blasted Texas City

HALIFAX, April 18.—(CP)—City council, remembering an explosion which devastated Halifax 30 years ago, last night decided to take action if any general appeal for funds on behalf of blast-ravaged Texas City was being made.

Aldermen who recalled that aid came swiftly from the United States when an exploding ammunition ship killed 1,800 here and laid waste part of the city in December, 1917, decided to ascertain if help was being asked for the Gulf city. Should an appeal be made, the council will decide what help can be extended.

India will now be able to manufacture quality plywood as a result of a new process developed in the laboratories of the council of scientific and industrial research.

Actress Janet Blair was all for the idea when she looked over the proposal of slacks parties for plump women who want to get a little slacks in their slacks.

BY JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Would you be surprised and intrigued if you received an invitation to come to luncheon in slacks? I think you would.

But here's a case where the idea may be successful. A reader writes, "Your recent article gave me inspiration. I got on the phone and invited a few of my plump and forth friends to come to a luncheon party in slacks. I was mysterious. What I am going to do is to put them and myself through a few sample exercises, chat and rest and then serve a sample slacks lunch. We will have hilarity and profit if we get started together on your eight week's regime. Competition and co-operation will make us busy in the line. Let the fat fall where it may! Therefore, and whereas and wherefore, will you please send me a dozen Eight Week Slacks than Routine leaflets? These will be distributed at the party."

I do not know who in the world more women do not do this! They have bridge clubs and sewing circles! Why not an exercise slacks club? It certainly makes the whole idea fun, rather than labor. Think how much fun it would be to measure when you begin and see who can make the best progress in eight weeks, taking turns, meeting at different homes!

The only mistake was "let the fat fall where it may." Actually, the fat will fall where you want it to! Nevertheless, this is the spirit in which the venture should be taken up. The first idea should be fun, and believe me, the results of such a venture will be even more fun! Some "Why Grow Old?" clubs have sprung up. It seems too bad that this does not happen more often because a congenial group can have a great deal of fun in this way.

All of the women invited should have some figure fault they wish to correct. Most of them may wish to lose weight, a few may wish to lose inches only. During the past four weeks one slim woman in my classes who had no extra pounds, but a large hip measurement, lost two and a half inches from her hip line through exercise.

If you wish to have my hip reducing exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 3 "Hip Exercises" to Josephine Lowman in care of The Edmonton Bulletin.

Less Money

WASHINGTON, April 18.—(AP)—Money in the hands of the American public has dropped $1 billion since Christmas and some government analysts cite the cost of living as a probable cause. They said high prices apparently are forcing many persons who kept their savings in the form of cash to dig into their hoarded bills.

Five Perish

EAST BRADY, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—Five members of a family perished and five were injured in a fire which destroyed the two-story Walter Jordan home in this western Pennsylvania town early today. Dead were four children of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, ranging in age from one to eight, and Mrs. George Jordan, about 60, their grandmother.

East returned the ten of clubs, declarer put on the jack and West won with the ace. The jack of hearts was returned, which declarer won in dummy with the queen. He cashed the king of hearts and threw West back in the lead with a heart. At this point, if West had led a diamond, East's queen would have won and set the contract, but instead West led a small spade. Declarer won with the nine, cashed the king of clubs and a small spade over to dummy and all the hearts were good.

The difference between the expert and the average player on a hand like this is that the expert never gives up. He keeps right on trying, and takes advantage of every mistake that the opponents make.

Blended Right!

It's possible for him to get away with murder. That is what happened on today's hand.

First of all the bidding was not good. Playing the hand at three no trump with a void can make for trouble. Declarer played the opening spade lead to ride up to his jack. For want of a better lead, he played the king of hearts, and was outplayed.

Next the trick. A small diamond was led and won by West. A heart was then played by West. Declarer played the eight of spades, and
